Student Patriots In Hub

Split Tax Bill Drive Goes In High Gear

Three Brockton legislators today announced their whole-hearted support for the Community Property Bill, designed to save Massachusetts from $32,000,000 to $100,000,000 annually. All three will speak in favor of the measure Tuesday at the State House when the bill comes up for a public hearing before the joint legislative committee on legal affairs.

With enthusiasm for the proposal mounting daily, Reps. John G. Asiaf, Arthur Sheehan and Gerald Lucey, all of Brockton issued statements urging speedy passage of the bill at this session of the Legislature.

Another leading advocate of the bill, Sen. Michael L. Lopresti of Boston, has scheduled a radio address tonight over Station WLAW, Lawrence. Speaking on the program, "This Week at the State House," broadcast at 7:30 p. m., Sen. Lopresti will explain the bill filed earlier this week in the Legislature and which was admitted by both branches under suspension of the rules.

"Passage of this far-sighted piece of legislation would halt the flight of capital from Massachusetts," Rep. Lucey said today. "It would go a long way toward remedying immediately a situation which has destroyed scores of industries and eliminated the employment of thousands of persons in the past 20 years."

In its present form, the primary purpose of the bill is to give married couples the opportunity to split their incomes by filing separate returns and thus reduce the individual levy. In addition to this factor, Rep. Sheehan pointed out that there are many other advantages for Massachusetts becoming a community property state.

"This bill would serve to strengthen the position of the family in society," the Shoe City legislator declared. "Marriage would have an added attraction for thousands. In many instances, it would really be possible for two to live more cheaply than one. Divorce would be discouraged."

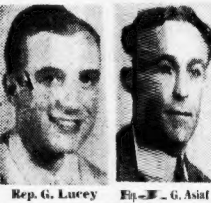

Pointing out the savings that would accrue to Bay State residents in reductions of federal tax payments if Massachusetts were a community property state, Rep. Asiaf asserted that the measure offers the state an opportunity to achieve financial solvency with its own money.

Enactment of the bill would place Massachusetts in line with the progressive states of California, Arizona, Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Washington, Nevada, Idaho and Oklahoma, where the community property law has been in successful operation for years.

Rep. Louis Lobel of Brighton, and Sen. Edward M. Rowe of Cambridge, House and Senate chairmen of their respective committees on legal affairs, announced that Tuesday's public hearing on the bill will open at 10:30 a. m. in Room 436 at the State House.

5 Die, 4000 Homeless in Iowa Flood

OTTUMWA, Ia., (AP)—The Des Moines area swept at least five persons to death and stranded hundreds today as floods left this Iowa river city of 30,000 persons without power or drinking water and forced 4000 from their homes.

Many feet of water covered the entire southern section of the city as the river hit a high of 44 feet with the crest of 20 feet this afternoon.

Two women and three children drowned when the boat on which they fled from high water sank in the swift current.

About 200 persons were stranded on the roof of the John Deere farm machinery plant. Five buses, including three Army landing craft, were lost in work of rescue.

The Navy is flying two helicopters from St. Louis to go to the junction with the Mississippi, spreading over huge areas.

(At the same time, tornadoes swept through Illinois, Colorado, Oklahoma and Missouri, causing damage into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, but no loss of life was reported.)

JVC, Veterans of Foreign Wars, representing State Comdr. James F. Reynolds; M. Lillian Gately, executive commander-at-large, American Legion; Mrs. John J. Crowley, state president of the Legion Auxiliary; Miss Anne M. Benoit, representing Pres. Helen Holmes of the VFW Auxiliary; Miss Bertha Brook, Auxiliary president, Jewish War Veterans; Rev. George Dowd, director of Catholic Youth Organization, representing Abp. Richard J. Cushing; Albert Doucette of the U. S. Veterans Administration, and Dr. Alexander Brin, editor of the Jewish Advocate and senior member of the Mass. Advisory Board of Education.

During the luncheon each of the three students was presented with a key to the city and a silver dolar by Curley on behalf of his father, the mayor.

Hoflyzer extended greetings to them on behalf of the American, Record and Sunday Advertiser and the three responded with a few impromptu remarks.

After the luncheon, the visiting trio were taken on an auto tour of historic Lexington and Concord, to see the shrines where American liberty received its baptism of blood.

They will have supper at Hartwell Farm, Lincoln, one of the finest relics of colonial architecture. Returning to Boston, they will attend a performance of "Three to Make Ready" at Colonial Theater.

Sunday at 9 they will be guests of the American Legion at a breakfast at the Copley-Plaza. State Commander Lawrence F. Quigley will be principal speaker, and other legionnaires, representing men who staked their lives on America in both world wars, will pay tribute to these peacetime patriots for their rebuke to a Red propagandist.

Jake Lindsey of Lexington, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor who recently renounced in the Army, will preside at the breakfast.

Bride, 13, Man, 74, Start Wedded Life

CHICO, Cal., June 7 (INS)—A 13-year-old Chico schoolgirl and a 74-year-old unemployed farm hand who were married Tuesday, set up housekeeping in an auto court here today.

The girl, formerly June Hogan, was married to Leonard Longmire in Reno. The girl said she was 16, but records show she was born June 21, 1933. She said her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hogan, of Chico, had given them their blessing. Her father is also a farm hand.

Wait Return of Trio Held in Lynn Killing

Arrested in Ithaca, N. Y., when they telegraphed a relative for money, a Lynn mother, her 15-year-old son, and a former merchant marine, 26, were held there today in connection with the bludgeon robbery-murder of Harry Rosen, 63, East Lynn manufacturer, last Wednesday. Carrying warrants for all three, Chief Insp. Charles T. Duggan of Lynn police and State Det. Lt. Raymond A. Foley left for Ithaca by auto at 4 a. m. They are expected there this afternoon and hope to return with the trio late tonight or early tomorrow.

The three under arrest are Mrs. Laura Shurger, 33, an attractive brunette, Herbert Douglas, 26, and Roy F. Shurger, Jr., 15, all of Lynn.

Douglas, who formerly worked for Rosen, is charged with murder. Young Shurger is charged with being a delinquent "by reason of murder." His mother is charged with being an accessory after the fact.

The warrant against Mrs. Shurger was issued to Capt. Duggan in Lynn police headquarters at 1 a. m., by William J. McCafferty, assistant clerk of Lynn district court, after Ithaca authorities notified Lynn police that the mother had been picked up with Douglas and the boy. Warrants against her son and Douglas had been issued yesterday.

Suspicion was first directed toward the trio when detectives learned that Douglas and the boy had been seen near Rosen's East Lynn factory on the afternoon of the crime. Later, a bungalow in Graves rd., Lynn, near the Pea-

2 Infants Battered to Death In Nursery of Ohio Hospital

Massillon, O., June 7 (AP)—Two infant girls were battered to death in the pediatric nursery of City Hospital last night by an unidentified assailant whose motive was unknown, police announced today.

Although the nursery sometimes contains as many as 36 children, the two victims were its sole occupants last night. They were:

Rosemary Morton, 9 weeks, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Morton, and Diane J. Brand, 8 weeks, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Brand.

A nurse, Marian Sillick, found the babies' bodies by their cribs last night. The bedclothing on a third crib was pulled back.

The coroner, Dr. Edward Reno, said the infants died "of injuries caused by blunt force."

Police Chief Stanley W. Switzer said the attacker may have picked them up and struck them against the floor. Dirt smudges were found on the head of the Brand baby.

The county prosecutor said that, in his view, hospital authorities had not been lax in their responsibilities.

The Brand baby was admitted to the hospital last Monday for an operation, and the Morton baby had been there since May 19 for observation.

A 26-year-old steelworker, the father of the Brand baby, related in a voice broken by emotion how he was called to the hospital last night under the delusion he was to offer his own blood for a transfusion.

When he entered the hospital attendants broke the news of the death of little Diane, the only child of the young Brands. "Edna is pretty well broken up," Leo Brand said of his wife, who gave birth to the child March 28 and returned happily to her modest home April 2.

Little Diane underwent surgery to correct an abdominal condition last Monday.

"I had been alerted to be ready to give her a transfusion," said Brand. "That's what I thought the call was about last night."

The mother, also 26, thought she was going to her baby's side while physicians administered whole blood as a strength-giving measure.

"I simply can't figure out who would do such a thing," the father said.

"No, there are no clues, so far as I know." The father sat near the telephone awaiting news of the hunt launched for the killer.

June 13 Deadline Asked For Filing Curley Plea

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—The Justice Department wants the U. S. Court of Appeals to require Mayor James M. Curley of Boston to petition the Supreme Court not later than June 13 for another test of his mail fraud conviction.

Earlier in the week Curley asked the appellate court to stay his sentence until the Supreme Court acts on a petition to reconsider its refusal to review his conviction. The petition has not yet been filed.

In an answer filed yesterday by William A. Paisley, special assistant to the Attorney General, the Justice Department asked that a stay not be extended beyond June 13.

Paisley said he is advised that is the last date for filing a petition for rehearing and still allow time for it to be acted on before the Supreme Court recesses June 16 for the summer.

The Supreme Court refused, 8 to 1, to review Curley's conviction on mail fraud charges. It rarely grants requests for reconsideration.

Curley is under sentence of 6 to 18 months imprisonment but is free on bond pending the final outcome of court action.

Baby Smothers In Mother's Arms

CINCINNATI, June 7 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Veneteau of Windsor, Ontario, alighted from a Greyhound bus and walked into the depot carrying their two-week-old daughter, Ellen.

In the station, Mrs. Veneteau loosened the baby's blanket, then screamed:

"My God! My baby is dead!" The couple rushed to General Hospital where Dr. Wyeth Hamlin said the baby had smothered while snuggled in her mother's arm.

Herbert Douglas Roy Shurger, Jr. body line, where all three lived, was found abandoned.

Police Chief William Marshall of Ithaca said the woman gave her name as Mrs. Douglas when arrested and said she recently had married the man under arrest with her.

Lynn police had asked authorities of upstate New York cities to be on the watch for the trio because Mrs. Shurger was married to Roy's father in Oswego in 1930 and Roy was born in Ithaca in 1932. The Shurger boy is a grandson of Alderman Roy C. Shurger of Ithaca.

The elder Shurgers sought to adopt Roy in 1938 in Essex Probate Court. The boy became a pawn in a custody battle when his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Drouin, a widow, of Oxford st., Lynn, also sought to adopt him. Mrs. Drouin won the right to adopt the boy. The youngster, Lynn police said, recently has been dividing his time between his mother and grandmother.

Ithaca Police Capt. John F. McCarthy notified Lynn police that he had found young Shurger in a telephone office in East State st. there at 11:45 last night. He said the boy's mother and Douglas were picked up across the street.

All three had spent the previous night at a lodging house in Madison st., Ithaca, police said, and the clothing of the boy and man was seized for possible chemical analysis.

Neighbors in Graves rd. said the trio departed Wednesday afternoon, leaving behind a white kitten and a collie dog. A neighbor was asked to feed them and was promised a check if the group did not return by Saturday.

Austria Grab Seen Answer by Stalin To Truman Policy

By Associated Press

A Communist maneuver against the Conservative-dominated government of Austria was reported in Vienna today, adding to the swift-moving sequence of events which many western diplomats regard as Stalin's answer to the Truman doctrine.

A high personality in the Austrian administration quoted a leading Austrian Communist as saying Moscow would refuse to sign a peace treaty with the present Austrian government.

The Communist, Ernst Fischer, was quoted as telling two Austrian cabinet members that he had definite information from Moscow that repercussions could be expected if "Western orientation" in Austria remained unchanged.

This drew significance from the Communist coup in Hungary, which forced Premier Ferenc

BULLETIN

BUDAPEST, June 7 (AP)—The British have sent a second letter to the Russian commander in Budapest asking copies of documents allegedly implicating former Premier Ferenc Nagy in a plot to overthrow the Hungarian Republic.

Nagy out of office, and the arrest in Sofia of the chief of Bulgarian opposition to the Soviet-supported Communist regime.

The Hungarian coup, which President Truman has called an outrage, still was being studied in Washington.

So long as no peace treaty is signed with Austria and the Allied occupation continues, Russia can keep troops in Hungary to maintain communications with her occupation forces in Austria. Retention of such troops conforms with terms of the treaty signed by the Allies with Hungary.

Russia has extended recognition to the Austrian government, along with France, Britain and the United States. Since recognition was extended, Austria, under Socialist President Karl Renner and Conservative Chancellor Leopold Figl has firmly opposed Yugoslav claims to Styria and Carinthia. Yugoslavia's claims are backed by Russia.

Romania's Communist Premier, Petru Groza, and his cabinet are in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, for conferences with other Balkan leaders, amid rumors concerning a Balkan federation firmly nailed into the Soviet sphere.

Visit to Sheep Station Shows Australia Great Wool Country

By RANDOLPH HEARST

AUCKLAND, N. Z., June 5 (Delayed)—I only had half a day to see Canberra as Tuesday morning I had an appointment to visit a sheep station or ranch located at Yass, a small town near the capital.

There are 120,000,000 sheep in the commonwealth, one-sixth of the world's total, producing more than a quarter of all the world's wool. One-third of the world's clothing wool, and one-half of the world's merino wool comes from this country.

Although the increase in wheat raising and dairy farms, plus the expanding secondary industries, have made inroads into the wool industry's position of importance, it is still the major factor in Australia's economic life. Before the war wool made up 42 per cent of the country's exports.

Vast areas of land, too dry for anything but sheep raising, towns, banks, sections of railroads and highways, all depend upon wool, and the very existence of hundreds of marginal producers depends upon their ability to find a market for their product.

An increase in American tariffs aimed at Australian wool could do this country a great deal of harm.

Some stations or ranches in Australia cover as much as 1000 square miles, but these large holdings are generally in poor country, subject to frequent drought conditions where you can normally run only one sheep to 10 or 15 acres.

The ranch I visited is a 30,000-acre tract owned by Ernest Merriam, one of the best merino sheep breeders in the country and on which he runs a stud farm and fine wool flock. I was privileged to see some of the sheep being groomed for the Sydney show, and even I could appreciate the fine texture, depth, uniformity and pure white color of the wool.

The first merinos originated in Spain. Until the 18th century the Spaniards had a monopoly of the world's fine wool. This was maintained by making exporting of the breed punishable by death, and as a sheep is very hard to hide under one's coat, and people were rather reluctant about having their heads chopped off, very few, if any, got out of the country.

However, in 1765 the King of Spain made the mistake of presenting a small flock to the Elector of Hanover (whoever he was), and a few years later gave another flock to Louis XVI of France.

The door was open, but after Napoleon got through with Spain in the Peninsular War it was practically knocked off its hinges and merinos were scattered all over Europe.

A Capt. MacArthur imported some from South Africa to Australia in the early days of colonization and the results were so good the Australian wool industry was on its way.

Fan Dancer's Role in Cote Trial Mystery

BROCKTON, June 7—While her role in the coming murder trial of Bertha Surprise Cote remains an official mystery, indications today were that red-haired Barbara Belmore will take the stand as a prosecution witness.

The fan dancer, known as "the other woman" in the life of Rene Cote, kept a date with him in Boston just a few hours before he was murdered in his Harvard st. home here.

That the dancer, known in private life as Angela Nellie Stryck of Leominster, would play an important part in the State's case against Rene's widow was seen in the answers of Asst. Dist. Atty. John B. Wheatley to questions of reporters.

Although he admitted the State would not call as a witness Barbara Ann Cote, 4, daughter of the defendant, Wheatley declined to state whether he intends to call Miss Belmore.

His reason for declining, he said, was that the prosecution does not intend to divulge the names of any witnesses it plans to call.

In the event Barbara Belmore makes the stand and confronts the attractive blonde widow, who is expected to provide the most dramatic moments in what promises to be a sensational trial.

Investigators said Rene Cote, 35, garage foreman, drove Barbara from her mother's home in Leominster to Boston the night of Dec. 27 and went with her to a Boston night club before putting her on the 11 p. m. train for New York.

His body, bludgeoned and strangled, was found in his home early the next morning.

His widow goes on trial in Superior Court here on a murder charge June 16.

Not a Candidate, Says Gov. Warren

ALBANY, N. Y., June 7 (INS)

Gov. Earl Warren of California, following a long discussion of politics with Gov. Dewey of New York, firmly reiterated today he is not a candidate for either the Republican presidential or vice-presidential nomination in 1948.

"I am not a candidate for any national office," said Gov. Warren, who was an overnight guest at the Albany executive mansion. "What about a draft?" he was asked.

"The same answer," was the reply. "A man either is or is not a candidate."

telephone call from "a high official." When Atty. Timothy Murphy, counsel for Kelly, objected, Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle turned and informed him the prosecution did not contend the caller was the defendant.

In response to questioning, Fogarty said the man was not a Boston official nor an employee of the city.

He said that at the time the telephone call was received, the permit had been granted and approved by Mayor Curley.

The prosecution contends that Kelly demanded $2500 from Donato and John Comoletti, of Cummins hwy., Mattapan, to obtain the permit for them to build a garage and gasoline station in Dorchester ave.

Fogarty testified that as a result of the telephone call, he erased the notation "Permit Granted" and the mayor's signature and typed in the words "Leave to Withdraw."

Under cross-examination the witness said that in the telephone call he was informed there was an error on the petition. He said he was directed by the street commission chairman to alter the petition.

He also testified that he did not see the defendant in the street commission office at any time.

Also called to the stand for today's half-day session before Judge John V. Sullivan and the locked-up jury were several witnesses who were abductors to the site where Donato and Comoletti planned to build. All testified they did not talk with Kelly about the permit nor authorize him to oppose it in their behalf.

In cross examination they admitted they had not been notified of the hearing on the permit application.

They were Samuel J. Tomasello, Arborway, Jamaica Plain; Joseph A. Singarella, Everett ave., Dorchester and Alfred and Esther Lakeman of Dorchester ave., Dorchester.

The session opened with the continued cross-examination of Donato, who remained unshaken in his story that Kelly demanded $2500 to assure them their permit application would be granted.

After Judge Sullivan adjourned the trial until Monday, Doyle announced that he expected to complete presentation of the State's case on that day.

The jurors, facing the prospect of a sequestered week-end, planned to spend most of the time in recreation, starting with the Lynn Classical-Nelson High School championship baseball game this afternoon at Fenway Park.

Truman Marches 2 Miles in Parade

KANSAS CITY, June 7 (AP)—Stepping jauntily along with military briskness, President Truman led a parade of the 35th Division through Kansas City streets today.

The 63-year-old chief executive, who had started in an open car, left the vehicle to walk the last uphill two miles of the parade route.

Two blocks after getting out of his car, Mr. Truman was presented a wooden cane by a man with a blue beret who came out of the crowd. With the cane the President picked up his pace.

Crowds applauded and cheered him to the Liberty Memorial where he stood to review the remainder of the parade.

The President participated in the parade before driving to Grandview for the second visit in two days with his mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman. He found her in good spirits and recovering fast.

Jealous Hawk Snaps Comb Out Cambridge Woman's Hair

A hawk stole a comb out of a woman's hair in Cambridge today. The vain vulture (bald as a bat, as you can well imagine) thereby started falconry in reverse with police banging branches off a tree with revolver shots and neighbors peeping the air around Tufts and Magazine sts., with bee-bee and rifle fire.

It all began with people being kind to pigeons. A diet of bread-crumbs and popcorn for these cooing birds attracted the attention of a pair of hawks. Mr. and Mrs. Hawk promptly built themselves a nest in a roof gutter atop a house in Tufts st., and when the pigeons went for the popcorn, they went for the pigeons.

Gradually, the hawks grew bolder and bolder. When Mrs. Patrick Creamer, the upstairs tenant, stuck her head out of a second floor window, jealous Mrs. Hawk swooped down and snatched a comb from her head.

A few minutes later, Mr. Hawk, apparently figuring if his wife could grab a comb he ought to be able to dig up a brush, smashed against the closed living room window where Mrs. Creamer's daughter, Mrs. Robert Brogan was sitting in a chair. Then the two hawks began circling the window zooming down on the sill with reckless abandon.

Mrs. Brogan called her father and Mrs. Creamer called police. Mr. Creamer, swinging a broom from the window scored several near misses before police arrived, followed by about 100 cheering youngsters. Howard Gayton of Whitney ave., enlisted on the side of the cope, squared away at the birds with his trusty .22.

The hawks retreated to a backyard tree. Police shots rang out: "Zing! Bang!" Then a crash through the leaves—and down came a branch. The battle was still on this afternoon as children cheered and pigeons cooed from under-cover.

Woman's Times Sq. Leap Frustrated

NEW YORK, June 7 (INS)—Saturday crowds in Times Square stared in horror today as a woman commercial artist climbed to the roof of the Strand Theater, 100 feet above the street and threatened to jump.

Amid a flood of police and fire alarms, pedestrian and vehicular traffic was snarled for half an hour until Mrs. Helen Davidson, 46, finally was engaged into conversation and pulled to safety by three policemen.

She was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Ginsberg Shot Game of Pool After Murder

Three prosecution witnesses testified in Superior Court today they had played pool with Benjamin Ginsberg, 47, Arbutus st., Dorchester, a few hours after Saul Weisman, 36, Lucerne st., Dorchester, was found stabbed to death and his wife, Etta, 31, seriously wounded.

Ginsberg is charged with the murder of Weisman and with assault with intent to murder the widow, mother of two young sons.

Ralph Greenberg, a dress cutter, and Henry Mostoff, foreman of a clothes cleaning plant, both of Theodore st., Dorchester, and Joseph Bossman, American Legion pkwy., Dorchester, testified Ginsberg played poorly and with an air of distraction. They said Ginsberg remarked he couldn't understand what was the matter with his game.

Under cross-examination, Greenberg stated the defendant had said he didn't feel well.

Earlier, four doctors of City Hospital testified to treating Mrs. Weisman for a compound skull fracture, 15 scalp lacerations, a brain laceration, multiple lacerations of the chest and back and shock.

Frank Stratton, civilian police chemist, testified spots on clothing belonging to Ginsberg and admitted to evidence were blood stains.

Also admitted to evidence were Weisman's overcoat, a blue suit coat and vest and a shirt, all bearing numerous slits and blood stains.

Court was adjourned to 9:30 a. m. Monday and the jury was informed it would be taken to the Braves Cincinnati baseball game tonight and on an outing to the Cape tomorrow.

Smart Set Clarke, Mitchell Weddings Today

By BETTY ALDEN

SOCIETY EDITORS and photographers would have to be in many places at once to cover all of today's important society weddings. But two of the outstanding ones are taking place at St. Cecilia's Sacristy, one at 3 and one at 3:45.

At three, Ann Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Clarke of Brookline, becomes the bride of Laurence W. Morgan, son of Mrs. Laurence W. Morgan of Boston and the late Mr. Morgan. Their marriage is followed by a reception at the Junior League.

Ann Clarke

The pretty blonde bride is wearing a gown of white satin with a scalloped neckline, long sleeves and train. Her veil of heirloom lace is caught to clusters of orange blossoms and she is carrying stephanotis. Her sister, Mrs. Richard B. Fowler of Brookline, is matron of honor, wearing blue taffeta with a headband and bouquet of blue delphinium and pink snapdragon. Carol Clarke, another sister, is maid of honor, wearing a pink taffeta with pink and blue flowers.

Ronald T. Lyman, Jr., brother-in-law of the groom, is best man, and the ushers are Arthur M. Clarke, Jr., Charles P. Curtis, 3d, Pelham, N. Y.; Daniel Ladd, Glen Head, L. I.; J. H. Dick Macy, Islip, L. I., and John B. Whitmore, Marblehead. Mr. and Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman, Jr., entertained the bridal party at dinner last evening.

Ann is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club and a graduate of Beaver Country Day School. Mr. Morgan attended Harvard with the class of 1941. They will live in Boston.

another sister, Barbara Mitchell, maid of honor. Barbara is wearing chateau silk jersey with an orchid horsehair hat and orchid mitts. She is carrying a cascade of lavender sweet peas.

Lt. Robert M. Dougherty, USN, is best man. The ushers are Evelyn V. Mitchell, Jr., John C. Ripley, Lt. Cmdr. Robert E. Sorenson, USN, and R. H. Bancroft Winsor.

The bride graduated from Country Day of the Sacred Heart in 1942 and is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club. Lt. Robinson graduated from Texas College of Mines and the Graduate School of M.I.T. After July 1 they will be at home in Williamsport, Pa.

MARION COULTER of Cohasset joins the ranks of future brides today with announcement by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger B. Coulter, of her engagement to Philip Bowditch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Bowditch of Jamaica Plain.

The bride-to-be graduated from Winsor School, attended Sweetbriar and is now at the Nursery Training School. She belongs to the Junior League. Her fiancé is a graduate of Moore, Brown and M. I. T., 1946. He served in the Coast Guard.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES L. FORBES of Providence announce the engagement of their daughter, Mrs. Betty Forbes Biber, to Russell Burrage, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burrage of Beverly Farms.

Hub-Born Styles

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

WHAT PRICE FASHION? Well within the means of every woman's budget, said the member-manufacturers of the Apparel Industries of New England, AND proved it this week at their first Boston Market fall showing since the war.

When it comes to price-adaptation of high styling, the Boston Market is in a class by itself . . . incomparable and unbeatable. Always noted for putting all the value it can for the money in a garment . . .

the New England market now comes up with fine styling as well as in wearable a collection of good-looking clothes as we have seen.

Boston clothes creators have never attempted to make the rest of the country conscious of their fashion importance. Maybe this start will send the Boston Market soaring to new heights.

More-for-your-money is not simply a figure of speech with the Boston Market . . . It is an actuality. Only they haven't sufficiently tooted their own horns.

For instance, Victor Levine's rich red-wine flared-back hooded greatcoat . . . which won one of the seven Spinning Wheel Awards granted by the Apparel Industries of New England for fine craftsmanship and distinctive design . . . will retail at approximately $39.95 . . . which is a lot of good-looking coat for the money, believe me.

Another award winner in the suit division . . . a purple wool, gray-fur-trimmed hooded jacket suit by Vernon Brothers . . . will sell at approximately $80 . . . again a soft, subtle, wonderfully flattering suit for the money in the days when price is a real consideration.

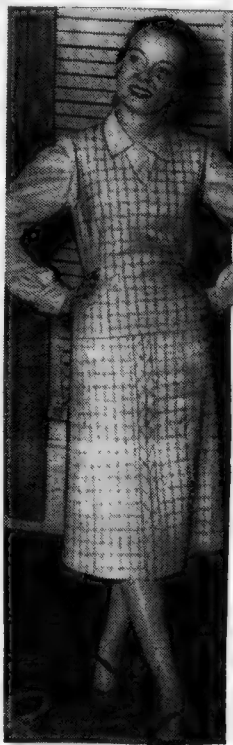

A glance at the three-piece sports outfit . . . black horizontally striped jerkin, white gabardine blouse and soft black wool skirt . . . by Madison Sportswear . . . leaves the eyes yearning for its captivating costumed look. Yet this three-piece will sell at approximately $20.

LUGGAGE-BROWN GEM

The grand-to-the-touch luggage-brown wool dress by Baron Peters with its frontal hip-line tucking, neat lapel collar and three-button closing is a very smooth-looking, smooth-fitting affair . . . yet for this excursion into the Boston-made fashion the price will be approximately $40.

And for the young careerist . . . the college co-ed . . . the young matron . . . there is the Jay Originals two-piece . . . sleeveless jerkin and skirt in window-pane green . . . motif wool, the back of the jerkin in gray sweater-knit, which will retail at approximately $8.95.

Boston as a fashion center came back to its deserved own this week. Long may the Boston Market reign . . . in fashion and in price!

GREEN and gray combine to make this two-piece by Jays Original an indispensable for work or play or school. The green window-pane motif is dramatically accented by gray sweater knit back of the jerkin for a look-twice, coming-and-going nifty sports outfit. The middie-blouse look, so new for fall, has been captured here.

Prize Winners in Fall Fashions

BOSTON-MADE clothes worn by Boston models are an unbeatable combination. Directly below, we see two prize winners of the Spinning Wheel Award, coveted recognition for craftsmanship and distinctive style, issued by the Apparel Industries of New England at the Boston fall showings this week. At right below, Peggy Ann Sullivan models Victor Levine's rich red-wine wool greatcoat with flared back and hood and fur-trimmed sleeves. At left, Italian Renaissance purple suit with short flared, gray-fur edged hooded jacket modeled by Nancy Jay.

Planning Meals to Meet Your Daily Iron Needs

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

WE CAN'T AFFORD to skip gaily through our meals giving no thought to the nutrients we are getting — not if we want to be healthy. Fats, proteins, starches, vitamins, and minerals must be supplied every day, in every single meal — and in proper amounts. Meal planners have to be on their toes for it's up to them to select foods that supply these essentials.

Take iron, for instance — this is one of the nutrients which plays an important part in vital processes and a shortage of it often shows up in general lowered body tone. It's needed to build good red blood, which carries the oxygen we breathe to all parts of the body. Without oxygen, our tissues and organs suffer.

Every smart homemaker planning her daily meals should know the foods that are rich in iron. In the order of their importance, these foods are: liver, molasses, oatmeal, dried apricots, eggs, whole wheat, raisins, parsley, lean beef, oysters, cabbage, mutton, lettuce, and spinach. And here are recipes that suggest ways of using them:

LIVER LOAF WITH PAN GRAVY

1½ lbs. beef liver
1½ cups boiling water
2 slices salt pork, ¼ inch thick
1½ cups cold water
1 medium-sized onion
¼ cup chopped parsley
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tbsp. flour
2 eggs, slightly beaten
Salt and pepper

Wipe liver with damp cloth or wash if necessary, cover with boiling water and let stand 10 minutes; drain. Grind with 1 slice salt pork and onions; add parsley, crumbs, eggs, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper, and mix thoroughly. Press into baking pan, 8x4x3 inches, and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 1 hour, or until browned; remove loaf to hot platter. Stir flour into drippings and brown; add water gradually and cook 5 minutes, stirring until thickened; season to taste and pour over loaf. Makes 1 loaf, 8x4x3 inches, or enough for 6 servings.

GINGERBREAD WAFFLES

2 cups sifted flour
3-4 tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
2 tsp. ginger

1 cup molasses
2 eggs, separated
1-3 cup shortening, melted
¼ cup sour milk or buttermilk

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine well beaten egg yolks and molasses; add to flour mixture alternately with sour milk, beating until smooth; add shortening and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron, removing tender waffle from iron in quarters. Serve hot with applesauce and bacon, or serve as a dessert with whipped cream flavored with molasses. Makes 8 waffles.

GLAZED HAM BALLS

½ lb. ground ham
¾ lb. ground pork
2-3 cup oatmeal
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk
1-3 cup brown sugar
2 tbsp. enriched flour
1 tsp. dry mustard
2-3 cup fruit juice or water
2 tbsp. vinegar
6 whole cloves

Combine ham, pork, oatmeal, egg and milk. Mix until thoroughly blended. Chill. Shape into small balls and place in shallow baking pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 deg. F.) for 1 hour. Drain off the drippings. Combine remaining ingredients in saucepan and cook on top of the stove until slightly thickened. Pour over ham balls and continue baking for 15 minutes. Serve in the center of a baked noodle or rice ring if desired. Garnish with parsley and carrot petals. Makes 6 servings.

Fresh Flowers On Bridal Cake

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Is it ever possible to use fresh flowers on the bridal cake, and if it is correct, I would like to use fresh flowers somewhere in the design. Have you any suggestions about this? DORIS B.

Yes, fresh flowers can be used in particularly attractive ways on the bridal cake. On a three-tiered cake, for example, the top tier may be made with a place in the center for the insertion of a small vase; the base of the vase is buried in the frosting, and in the vase are put either all-white blossoms, for example lilies-of-the-valley, or white-and-pink flowers. And an old and romantic European custom, now often used here, is to press small roses into the icing, just before the cake is taken to the table. Sweetheart cakes are the usual choice. 4 Survivors of Zoo Quintuplets Face the Camera

Four of a Kind—New lion arrivals at a Baltimore zoo are these four survivors of quintuplets, born on May 16th and photographed for the first time. Proud parents of the four sleepy cubs are Jim and Sis, favorites at the zoo for years. The kittens, two males and two females, weigh from three to four pounds apiece. Fifth cub failed to live more than a week.

Kiss the Bride—Congratulations are in order for newlywed Mrs. Edward F. Lally as her sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Leahy, gives her a kiss after nuptials in St. Ann's Church in Somerville today. Bidegroom looks on at left. She is the former Rita V. Leahy, Browning rd., Somerville.

Ex-Pilot Weds—In solemn nuptials in St. Joseph's Church, Medford, the former Loretta O'Brien, 2204 Mystic Valley Parkway, today became the bride of ex-Lt. George A. Collins, Jr., Bullard st., Dorchester. Bridegroom was a Marine pilot

WHO DARES TO BOOST TAXES?

SHALL WE, the people of Massachusetts, keep at least thirty-two million dollars and probably as much as one hundred million dollars of our own money in our own State?

Or shall we surrender this money NEEDLESSLY to the Federal Government for distribution among the other forty-seven States?

These are the fundamental questions which the Community Property Bill poses.

If the bill is defeated, the people of Massachusetts will be compelled to pay from 14 to 42 per cent MORE to the Federal income tax collector.

If the bill is NOT defeated, the people of Massachusetts will be allowed to keep their own money and to use it to pay real estate taxes, to finance new homes or to put their children through college.

Judge John J. Burns, one of the nation's outstanding attorneys, has said:

"The people of Massachusetts are not so affluent that they can afford lightly to give away as much as one hundred million dollars."

And the distinguished jurist is absolutely right. THE MONEY BELONGS HERE. There is no reason why Massachusetts should continue to play Santa Claus to various Southern and Western States which habitually avoid their proper share of the Federal debt burden.

There are persons who argue that the Community Property Bill should be referred to a legislative recess commission and delayed for one year or two years.

These obstructionists and procrastinators are very free with other people's money.

To satisfy their own whims and selfish ambitions, they dare suggest that the people of Massachusetts lose as much as one hundred million dollars each year.

A great many of these persons who are opposing the Community Property Bill are strongly in favor of a sales tax, a heavier impost on gasoline and cigarettes and a bigger State income tax.

WITH THEM, APPARENTLY, IT IS ALL RIGHT TO RAISE TAXES BUT ALL WRONG TO REDUCE TAXES.

FORTUNATELY, the opponents of the Community Property Bill constitute a very small minority.

The overwhelming majority of the people of Massachusetts want to reduce their Federal income taxes in the Community Property manner approved by the nation's highest tribunal.

The majority is well aware of the fact that prosperity and common sense demand that Massachusetts money should stay in Massachusetts to benefit Massachusetts, just as California money stays in California to benefit California.

The majority is very sure that saving enough money every year to pay off the mortgage on one's home or to put a child through college is infinitely more worth while than waiting for a colerie of pussy-footers to reach a decision regarding legal red tape.

The majority is fully convinced that there is sufficient legal talent on Beacon Hill to revise the laws properly and promptly so that the people can save as much as one hundred million dollars THIS YEAR.

The majority wants the kind of immediate action that will keep Massachusetts money in Massachusetts pockets.

The majority is not interested in excuses, alibis or empty promises.

The majority readily sees that the ONLY WAY the people of Massachusetts can get the tax reduction already granted to the people of the ten Community Property States is to make Massachusetts a Community Property State AT ONCE.

The Senator or Representative who votes for the Community Property Bill votes for the biggest tax reduction the people of Massachusetts have received in twenty-five years.

The Senator or Representative who votes against the Community Property Bill votes for an extremely unpopular and thoroughly unjustified TAX INCREASE.

My love bound me with a kiss
That I should no longer stay,
When I felt so sweet a bliss,
I had less power to part away.
Had she bid me go at first,
I would ne'er have grieved my heart.

But, oh, to kiss and then to part.
Alas, that women do not know
Kisses make men loath to go.

AM INFORMED MANY London, Eng., taxi skippers are getting new cars. These cabs, manufactured in Birmingham, Eng., cost the equivalent of $4800 each. That's a lot of money for a taxicab. But they will probably last about 30 years. In England they are still manufacturing things that way.

ASIDES: "You say Libby Holman made her first hit singing 'Body and Soul,'" writes Walter Bachlor. "You lose the story. Libby made her first hit singing 'Moanin' Low' in the first Little Show. I know. I was her manager at the time." ... "So David Warfield has lived in the same Manhattan apartment for 40 years," writes New Yorker, Mrs. M. Dwyer. "Well, my mother has lived in the same Manhattan apartment for 53 years and in this apartment all of her 11 children were born and brought up."

HORSES & WOMEN: Who said twin thoroughbreds were useless insofar as racing is concerned? I see a twin thoroughbred named Dustraiser, by Reigh Count-Breath of Air, is racing and winning at Aqueduct. As we are on the subject of horses, I would like to tell you about a noble British thoroughbred named Trimbush, now racing successfully in England. When Trimbush is pulled up after his morning workout he will not take another step until given an apple. If the apple is not immediately forthcoming he starts nudging in the trainer's pocket for it. Horses are almost as interesting as dogs. I'll never be really happy until I own a couple of thoroughbreds.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS. Q. What relation is Daphne Dumaurier, author of "Rebecca," to George Dumaurier, author of "Trilby"? A. Daphne is the granddaughter of George. Her father was Sir Gerald Dumaurier, celebrated actor-manager. She is the wife of Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick A. M. Browning of the Royal Air Force. Your query has inspired me to start reading "Trilby" for the twenty-second time. I certainly would like to see another film version made of it. Q. I see an opera star makes some disparaging references to the heavy-weight feminine operatic stars of the yesteryear. Who was the heaviest of these pleasingly plump nightingales of the Met? A. Couldn't say. However, I have heard that at one time Emmy Destinn weighed two hundred and twenty pounds. But nevertheless essayed the title role in "Madame Butterfly."

SILVER BLONDES: The silver blonde is No. 1 in order of preference on the list of the 70 different types of blondes. Maybe this kind of blonde should have a higher rating. I am informed a New York specialist in silver blondes is growing rich. I gather that becoming and remaining a silver blonde is quite a luxury. I do not know what the charge is for changing a brunette or a dishwater blonde into a silver blonde, but am informed subsequent treatments cost $25 each. Keep this in mind, young fellow, if the girl you are thinking of marrying expresses any desire to become a synthetic silver blonde. I am not certain I even know what a silver blonde is. I often feel my education as to blondes has been sadly neglected.

PLEASE NOTE: Feminine film stars are strongly attracted by parts which call for a number of changes of costume. Some put this angle above the dramatic value of a part. It is also a fact many feminine film fans can enjoy even a poor picture if the star wears some good-looking clothes. Anyway, in the British film "The Courtneys of Curzon" the star, Anna Neagle, has a fashion field day. She wears more than 40 different costumes. Not only that; these costumes cover a fashion period of 46 years from 1899 to 1945.

AULD LANG SYNE: Am asked if Vesta Tilley is still living. At last report she was very much alive and celebrated her 83d birthday by taking a new 40-year lease on her flat in Piccadilly. As you may not be a Young Old Timer, I must tell you Vesta was a brilliant vaudeville star who became famous warbling such ditties as "Following in Father's Footsteps," "The Piccadilly Johnny With the Little Glass Eye" and "What Shall We Do With Our Daughters?" She didn't retire until 1920, so you don't have to be so old to remember her. At her retirement she had been on the stage 51 years. For 45 years she was married to Sir Walter De Frece, who died in 1935.

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE DELEGATES of the World Federation of Trade Unions traveled to Japan as the guests of the American government, the host being the War Department. Gen. MacArthur had no wish for them to come but he was overruled by Secretary of War Patterson. The delegation consisted of Louis Saillant, general secretary of the Federation; Ernest Bell, international secretary of the British Trade Union Congress; Willard Townsend, executive board member of C. I. O., U. S. A.; Michael Tarazov, secretary of the Central Council of the Soviet Trade Unions; Patrick Waldborg, secretary of the delegation.

Gen. MacArthur

Their "Information Bulletin" recounts a visit to a Korean textile mill accompanied by three members of the board of the All-Korean Trade Union Congress—a left-wing organization. Apparently the management of the textile mill did not regard this delegation as of very much importance. So, "Mr. Saillant expressed his surprise to the director at not having been received as he left his car as it is traditional and customary on all similar missions."

SO APPARENTLY THEY got into a fight, that is the Korean Trade Union members and the local people. The management, I quote the W. F. T. U. report—"Then informed us that he refused to grant permission to visit the establishment in the company of the people we had chosen." The fight was apparently a bad one—"The members of the delegation were later informed that during the course of the morning the Korean police had arrested many members of the All-Korean Congress of Trade Unions who had been distributing the text of the message of welcome in honor of the members of the W. F. T. U. delegation." Then the delegation passed the following resolution:

"(1) That all the persons arrested shall be released immediately.

"(2) That the delegation be given the opportunity of seeing before the departure at 8.30 this evening the two Korean Trade Unionists who were brutally beaten at the factory.

"(3) That a medical report be given to the delegation on the extent of physical damages which these two men have suffered.

"(4) That the delegation be given a guarantee that the security and the lives of these men and of the other members of the group who were accompanying us will be safeguarded.

"(5) That action be taken against the perpetrators of these brutalities and the manager of the factory.

"(6) That the director of the plant Mr. Lee, and his manager, Mr. Kim, who have allowed these incidents to take place on the basis of complete democracy without interference by the state or the police and that this guarantee shall be incorporated in a law.

"(7) That steps be taken to ensure that the people be guaranteed the right to organize in trade unions of their own choice on the basis of complete democracy without interference by the state or the police and that this guarantee shall be incorporated in a law.

"(8) That this committee through its chairman, Mr. Saillant, be advised as to the disposition of this case and that the Korean people be advised of the results."

THE PROBABILITY is that nobody paid much attention to these world-shaking resolutions. But the point is that it was the War Department of the United States that insisted upon this troublesome delegation going to Japan and Korea where nobody wanted them. It is true that the American delegation, Willard Townsend, is not a Communist and was not in accord with the anti-Americanism of his Communist confederates. Here is a troublesome crowd of left-wing unionists who will, in the future, make their headquarters in the United States, at the United Nations building in New York.

The United Nations is a parliament of governments, but by resolution certain private organizations have been accorded special rights, particularly the right to maintain headquarters on their premises.

The W. F. T. U., the international left-wing labor organization, is one of those. This body will in future have the advantage of a New York address. The cover-up is that the A. F. of L. and the International Chamber of Commerce will have offices there, too. But the W. F. T. U. is already acting as though it were an international body. Actually, it is a menace.

"You ungrateful wretch! You heartless brute! You miserable worm! Oh, if you only KNEW what I think of you!"

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 7 — A heavy schedule movie Czar Eric Johnston has arranged for himself in Europe. He goes first to the Brussels festival, and then to Sweden to try out the exchange problem. "Are we getting any money for our motion pictures out of Europe?" I asked him.

"Only from England," he replied. "and a little from Sweden. That's why I am going abroad at this time to see what we can arrange for our quotas."

The told me among other things he will visit Norway and France in regard to the exchange problem. Then to Germany to see about our making movies.

He is returning to Hollywood in July. Until then James Byrnes, former Secretary of State, will keep an eye on Washington problems such as the fight against Communism. Johnston urges the whole of Hollywood to battle to free this country of all subversive influence.

ANN SHERIDAN proved in "Unfaithful" what she always wanted to prove—that is, that she can play dramatic roles even better than she plays musical comedy beauties. I had my doubts about this, with "Nora Prentiss" her first dramatic try. But "Unfaithful" is another story—and another Annie. She is superb as the wife accused of murder—and I mean superb.

Ann Sheridan

Now she's for "Scandalous," a romantic comedy which Jerry Wald will produce and Vincent Sherman direct. If you ask me any more about "Scandalous," I'll have to wave the white flag. Maybe it's one of those ideas, whipped up over executive luncheon teas, where an original thought is turned over to a good script writer.

THERE WAS really a reunion when Jimmy Dunne walked on the set of "Killer McCoy" at MGM Thursday morning for his first day's work. The script girl, Grace Dubrey, was the script girl on "Bad Girl" 16 years before.

It was Grace who had taken Jimmy to Frank Borzage and said, "I think this boy would be good in the part." You must be a member of the "Bad Girl" with Jimmy Dunne and Sally Eilers won an Academy Award and was one of the all-time best pictures made by the old Fox company.

Jimmy is now working with Mickey Rooney and Elizabeth Taylor, two kids who were mere children 16 years ago.

CINDERELLA STORIES are always popular because the boy or girl who reads them feels it might happen to him or her. And here's a story that is 100 per cent Cinderella.

Ellen Corby, who was a script girl on the RKO lot for a long time, and who then played bits, has been chosen by George Stevens to take Jessica Tandy's place. When I called my daughter, Harriet Parsons, to ask her if it were true, she said yes, and that George Stevens really feels he has something in Ellen Corby.

She'll play Trina, and her texts were so excellent he is delighted. When George told Ellen the part was hers, she burst into tears, she couldn't believe her good fortune.

CHIATCHAT: Frank Nugent, who was once on the New York Times and wrote wicked pieces about many of us, is now having matrimonial trouble. His wife, Dorothy, has many friends here.

About Mr. Nugent's friends, I wouldn't know. I never met the gentleman, and I stopped reading him long before he and the New York Times came to the parting of the ways. He is now with John Ford where what barbs he has to write can be directed at fictional people.

Apparently he's in a cycle of stories of sheer sentiment. If you don't believe that, watch "Miracle on 34th Street" go at the box office.

Now along comes Roy Del Ruth with a story he's just bought, "The Little Fellow" by George Calahan—a goosey, tear-jerking thing if I ever heard one. Roy tells me, however, there's a lot of exciting action about a little boy who was the mascot of the Chicago and northwestern railroads back in the days of 1888.

When he died at a very early age, his body was buried along the tracks—and to this day it's a tradition for the railroad men to slow down and wave to a little ghost just as he used to wave to them.

I had a wonderful talk with Edmund Goulding, who is my guest Sunday on the air. That brain works like chain lightning. He's been called the best director of women in the business and he'll say right out loud Sunday night what three women he considers have the greatest talent, and why.

First is Eddie in New York. He took me to the opening of a Belasco play the night I interviewed Rudolph Valentino which, incidentally, was Rudy's first interview. Now that will give you a rough idea how long I have known this talented 20th Century director.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Carmen Miranda has turned blonde because her bridegroom, David Sebastian, favors blondes.

Sonja Henie is seeing Stuart Barthelmess every day and practically every evening. So if there was a coolness it's all over, as she is reported to have told friends it was. It's very much on again.

Fifi D'Orsay fell on the stairs at her home. He denies it, but Fay is staying on in New York to replace Jean Parker in "Burlesque" with Bert Lahr.

Nan Wynn and Milton Pickman, Columbia executive, will be married at the home of Jerry Wald in August. The two gents went to school together.

He and Jimmie Beck are on their way here by motor. Just before they left New York they gave a party for the Queen of Egypt, who is planning to visit Hollywood.

Roy Rogers has voted against taking his two daughters, Cheryl and Linda, on his tour with his "Thrill Circus." Too strenuous for them to take the one-night stands. So they will vacation at Yosemite.

Beautiful, blonde Ilona Massey turns brunette in "Monte-rey." Her next picture at Republic, Ilona, who usually sings with Nelson Eddy in these Republic epics, sings with John Carroll this time. He has a very good voice, too, if not of the operatic quality of Nelson's.

Al Zimbalist is in town to set up production for film classics. While here he will show a reissue of "That Hamilton Woman" with Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh. The proceeds will go to the Damon Runyon Cancer Memorial. Are you listening, Walter?

David May and Ann Rutherford having dinner quietly together at the Tallyho. How I wish I could report this was a reconciliation. David would never find a nicer girl than Ann. Ann Stewart and Bobby Speck at a table for two at the Mocambo.

Listen to Louella O. Parsons Sunday night, 9:15 to 9:30, over A. B. C.

Federal Workers' Problems

WASHINGTON, June 7 —Not too much now is being said about it publicly, but plenty of leading citizens around the capital city are fretting nowadays over the wholesale dismissal of government workers.

One newspaper has written an editorial on the subject—but otherwise officials are, as yet, unwilling to be quoted.

To begin with, it isn't a matter of agreeing or disagreeing with the current curtailment of federal bureaus. Since that obviously is a matter no longer open for debate, it's accepted as an established fact.

A high-ranking government personnel chief pointed out that the majority of employees turned loose by the budget-trimming process would be girls—"largely between the ages of 20 and 30."

"If all of those girls would promptly pack up and go home," he said, "the biggest per cent of the problem would be solved."

Unfortunately, however, there seems to be some reasons why that isn't likely to occur. He listed a few:

Many of the girls haven't saved any money, and simply haven't the fare home—without sending for it. Even if they could get it by that method, a lot of them are too proud to do it, at first.

PRIDE ENTERS into another phase of the problem. Since the girls left home to come to Washington and, presumably, "get somewhere in the world," a big per cent of them won't go home even if they have the necessary money.

They're afraid it would indicate that they've failed," the personnel chief said.

He added that still others, not particularly thinking about the matter of pride, simply prefer it in Washington to their home towns—and are quite confident that they can find adequate work.

Naturally, it goes without saying that a lot of boys and young men fall into the same categories. But, according to most officials, the percentage isn't nearly as large.

And the trouble is that there doesn't seem to be the available work for either the boys or the girls. In the case of the former, already taxi-drivers are getting the jitters because a good many ex-government men with families have turned their cars into cabs and started hacking for a living.

Labor organizations also are showing signs of unrest over the potentialities of this huge unemployed population which daily is growing larger. They're afraid that erstwhile white-collar workers will return to laboring jobs by the wage-cutting process, when necessity forces their hands.

FINALLY, city police officers and judicial leaders are openly troubled about what may result when the financial pinch gets too tough. Despite all the talk to the contrary, the average government worker during the past decade has not been particularly high paid. Consequently, he hasn't saved much money.

If he elects to stick it out in Washington, and if he has a family, his economic pinch is going to push him only so far before he becomes a potential law-enforcement problem. And that refers only to the men.

By Kenneth Dixon

Returning to the girls already, or about-to-be, released from their jobs, the situation is even worse. There are many more of them—and the employment possibilities are fewer.

And if thousands of them elect to stick it out to the last dollar, it doesn't take a soothsayer to foresee what social crisis will follow.

The whole business has Washington worried. Not much is being said officially about it, because these are days of stern economy waves and the one who speaks too loudly may be the next to feel the axe.

But the consensus around town is that the economy era is likely to last a while—and that those who lose their jobs through budget cuts had better go home, if it is at all possible.

And their advice to folks back home is to wait the youngsters here to that effect.

Cronin Last A.L. Pilot to Desert Coaching Box

Joe Cronin

By HERS FINNEGAN

DETROIT, June 7.—Joe Cronin didn't pick up Jimmy Outlaw's glove, punch its pocket and step on the bag before taking his position in the third base coaching box today. He wasn't in the box when Don Gutteridge stepped to the plate in the first inning of the Red Sox-Detroit deferred opener. The Sox manager had benched himself.

Few had noticed before rain halted Friday's game in the first half inning that Cronin wasn't on the lines. The game didn't last long enough. But Del Baker was on third, Larry Woodall on first, and Cronin in the dugout—for the first time since April, 1946.

Cronin never coached at third before last year. He was either a player-manager or bench manager. Highly superstitious, he wouldn't take himself off the lines as the Red Sox were whistling to the pennant.

Nor would he risk changing the luck this year. So it was he'd walk around the plate, down the line, pick up the rival third baseman's glove, dig his bare duke into it a couple of times, step on the bag before every inning. Before every inning except one—the day Cleveland hid Keltner's glove so Joe couldn't put on his little act.

But the luck didn't hold this year. The Sox are playing only .500 ball, certainly not a pennant pace. Now is the time to grab opportunity by the forelock, whip the Tigers while Kell and Wakefield are injured, clean up the fence-conscious Indians and go home in good position to take over the lead. Maybe, Joe's thinking, the luck will change for the better if he takes to shelter.

Gehrig Done Out of Home Run Title

OF COURSE, he doesn't admit luck plays a part in his moves.

"I can get a better perspective of the game from the dugout," he said. But he did admit that if the Red Sox got off to a 15-game win streak he wouldn't return to the lines. If they continue to play .500 ball?

"Then I'd have to go out again and work off some explosive energy," he admitted.

Few managers double in coaching today—at least in the A. L. Over in the other league, Grimm, Dyer and Southworth are always on third, but Cronin was the last regular A. L. manager-coach incumbent, and he didn't get on the lines until '46.

"Two of the greatest managers in the game never coached," Cronin points out, and he is referring to Joe McCarthy and Connie Mack. But Joe Judge will tell you McCarthy did coach his first year with the Yankees (1931) until he cost Gehrig the home run championship. Gehrig and Ruth tied for the home run leadership with 46 apiece, but Gehrig made another he never got credit for.

This was the set-up: Runner on second, two out. Gehrig lined a drive into the left centerfield stands in Washington. Whether the ball bounced back into an outfielder's hands memory doesn't record. At any rate, McCarthy thought the ball was caught, held up the runner, and waved him to his position. Gehrig was called out for passing him and given credit for only a double.

"McCarthy never again appeared on the coaching lines," Judge smiled.

Ossie Bluege gets out for Washington occasionally, but usually at first base. Ted Lyons is mostly a bench manager in Chicago. Bucky Harris coached at third base for years with the Red Sox, Washington and Detroit, but is a bench manager with the Yankees. Muddy Ruel leaves the coaching to Fred Hoffman and Earle Combs in St. Louis and Steve O'Neill hands the duties to Shellenback and Sweeney. Of course, Lou Boudreau manages his Indians from shortstop—from the dugout when injured.

So Boston may have seen the last of Cronin on the lines. He won't be back if the Red Sox win. And if they're ever going to win they'll do so in this city and Cleveland.

Pass Up Hit-and-Run for Sacrifice

DETROIT HAD Trucks (3-4) and Newhouse (5-6) ready for today's single game with the Red Sox. Cronin was waiting until warm-up time to choose between Ferriss (4-4) and Hughson (2-5).

"Billy Evans was in the press box when rain halted Friday's game. 'Looks like two tomorrow, boy,' said the Tigers' general manager. 'We're already sold out for Sunday. Besides you have to catch an early train for Cleveland.' But Steve O'Neill had the last word. 'We'll play it off next trip,' said the Detroit manager whose club is harassed by injuries. Cronin didn't blame him. If the shoe were on the other foot, Cronin would have done the same thing. The Tigers hardly can be worse off in July, when next the Sox visit them, than they are today.

Two noteworthy occurrences in the 2-3 inning the Sox got in before Ump. Red Jones ceased hostilities. First, there was Cronin's absence from the lines; second, there was Pesky bunting in the first inning. Gutteridge opened with a single, and press critics almost fell off the perch when Pesky sacrificed. All year long it's been hit-and-run, but the hit-and-run only served to take Williams (No. 4 hitter) out of the inning. By bunting, Williams is sure to get to the plate and there is always a chance he'll bust one for two runs. If walked, there are two men on with the dependable Mele at bat. Since the inception of the lively ball, few A. L. clubs bunt until the late innings and then only if they are leading. But the Sox offense is built around Williams and Mele, and the theory is to bring them to the plate with men on base.

DETROIT IS 225,000 in arrears of its 1946 home attendance, mostly due to the weather. They've had two Sundays rained out, played in the rain two others. But the Yanks drew only 11,322 in their final game here, and there weren't more than 15,000 in the stands to see the Sox. Last year Detroit's average daily attendance was 25,000. Detroit writers admit the Tigers won't finish better than third. Steve O'Neill, like Connie Mack and others, thinks the Yanks will be the team to beat, and also has high praise for the A's, who thrice have beaten the Red Sox in the ninth inning.

Beazley's Return to Form Bolsters B's Hurling Staff

Warren Spahn has been chosen by Manager Bill Southworth to keep the Braves on the winning trail as they battle the Cincinnati Reds in a floodlight game tonight at Braves Field. Opposing the crack left-hander who is looking for No. 9 win is expected to be veteran right-hander Buck Walters, or possibly Ed Ewart, a youngster who also throws right-handed.

Transfer's Bat Helps Classical

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Possibly, it would be only fair to give St. Mary's High of Lynn an assist for the victory scored by neighboring Classical (7-5 over Belmont) to qualify for the final of the Eastern State tournament at Fenway Park today (2:30 p.m.).

For without the St. Mary's contribution to the Classical Club, Gus Moran, Coach Bill Joyce, boys might not be battling Newton High in this wind-up.

Moran's transfer last fall was the difference between a coasting victory—although Belmont did have its moments—and a real tight ball game yesterday at the home of the Red Sox. It was Moran's sweetly tagged home run off pitcher Skippy Viglorolo that proved to be the margin of victory—a homer that landed well up in the screen in the left field fence and the first such blow to be registered in the tourney since Roy Martin conked one for Norwood in 1943.

How does it happen that Moran's batting eighth in the lineup? Coach Joyce refuses to shift a winning combination, in spite of the fact that in the qualifying test against B. C. High, Moran contributed two doubles and a single (that should have been for two bases) in the rout of the Eagles.

Classical's first inning explosion against Belmont's southpaw, Gerry Dee, has caused no end of consternation on the Newton bench. Coach Jeff Jones felt that southpaw Hal Wiper might have been the answer to the explosive Lynn bats. Now, he may shift to right-hander Paul Condon.

Coach Joyce will send Johnnie Rubinowski right back. The sophomore sensation held B. C. High to three hits, came back for a hero's relief role against Belmont and this was to be his third start in as many days.

Midget Car Drivers Duel at Groveland

New England's crack midget auto drivers will be in for a busy weekend of competition as they continue their drive for the championship at the Franklin Fair Grounds tonight and then shift over to Tiverton, R. I., oval Sunday night.

Among the drivers scheduled to battle it out for top honors both nights will be Oscar Ridick, Roxbury; Joe Sostilio, Natick; Dick Shubruck, Cohasset; Eddie Carterline, Newton; Bill Randall, Peabody; and Hermine DeLisle, Lowell.

Eight races will make up the programs at both tracks, with competition scheduled to get underway at 7:45.

GOP-DEM GAME OFF

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—A baseball game between Republican and Democratic members of the House was called off today because of rain and wet grounds. Rep. Bishop (R.) of Illinois, who announced the postponement, said another date will be set later for the game in Griffith Stadium.

BUCCS OPTION McLISH

PITTSBURGH, June 7 (AP)—Calvin Coolidge McLish, 21-year-old right-handed flinger, obtained by the Pirates in a deal with Brooklyn, has been released under option to Albany of the Eastern League.

Pearl Diver Wins Darby; Books Happy With Tudor Minstrel 4th

EPSOM DOWNS, June 7 (AP)—Pearl Diver, a 40-to-1 French horse owned by Baron G. De Waldner, scored an astonishing four-length victory in the 168th running of the English Derby today as the shortest priced favorite in more than a decade—Tudor Minstrel—finished out of the money.

Backed down to 4 to 7 and virtually conceded the $38,404 winner's pot in all the pre-race speculation, Tudor Minstrel finished a faltering fourth, carrying with him, in defeat once more, Gordon Richards, who is the world champion of jockeys—but has never won a Derby.

A crowd of nearly half a million, including the royal family, turned out for this renewal of England's ancient classic. The throng saw the colt many had been calling Britain's "horse of the century" come home for out of it—behind the flying French winner, Migoli, 100-6 shot who was the Aga Khan's hope for a fourth Derby triumph, and Sayajirao, the $117,600 purchase of the Maharaja of Baroda, highest-priced yearling in turf history.

Sayajirao had been 6-to-1 second choice to Tudor Minstrel in the betting, but wound up three-quarters of a length back of Migoli as Jockey G. Bridgeland drove Pearl Diver to his smashing victory in this field of 15.

The defeat of Tudor Minstrel, who had been unbeaten and even untroubled in the six starts of his racing career up to now, was a rude shock to the assembled thousands but a merry event for the bookmakers.

The bookmakers stood to lose thousands of pounds if either Tudor Minstrel or the 11 second choice, Sayajirao, had come home in front.

Pearl Diver was practically unheard of in the pre-race speculation, which centered only on how far the Minstrel would win by and who would take second money.

Some estimates were that with Tudor Minstrel running out of the money, as Richards failed in the Derby for the 22nd time in his career, bookmakers had been saved 5,000,000 pounds ($20,000,000).

Piloted by Bridgeland and trained for the grind by F. Carter, Pearl Diver ran the mile and a half in a slow 2:38 2-5, far off the Derby record of 2:33 4-5 held by the mighty Mahmoud.

Baron Dauray de Waldner, the surprised owner of the winner, said he had prayed for rain, rain that has fallen the past until Tuesday, after a long period of dry weather. It has rained every day since.

Pearl Diver was bred at Mortfontaine during the war. "I bred him myself and have always thought he would turn out to be a fine colt, but we didn't think he could beat Tudor Minstrel," the baron admitted. He confessed, also, that he had bet £50 to win and £50 to place on the 40-to-1 shot.

Blue-suited and wearing a gray waistcoat, Baron De Waldner was in high spirits when the King sent for him to receive the royal congratulations.

Mrs. Black Retains Golf Title

By BILL GRIMES

BELMONT COUNTRY CLUB, June 7—A year ago Mrs. Paul G. Black of Marshfield won the Women's Golf Ass'n of Massachusetts title at the 19th hole. Today history repeated as Mrs. Black was carried to the first extra hole by Miss Dorothy (Polly) Sullivan of Commonwealth in one of the best finals in the annals of WGA championships. Both Mrs. Black and Miss Sullivan played exceptionally well.

The outstanding feature was the excellent sportsmanship of both finalists. Time and again they conceded putts which were missable distances from the cups. The concessions were noteworthy of mention because of the closeness of the match. At no time were the opponents more than two holes apart.

Mrs. Black went to the turn in 41 and was one up, but she required 44 strokes to negotiate the back nine, giving her a medal round of 85. Miss Sullivan put together a pair of 42s for an 84.

The 19th hole was a thriller. Off the tee Miss Sullivan was just short of the top of the hill, some 20 yards behind her opponent. Both hit fine second shots, Miss Sullivan playing an iron because she didn't like the lie.

They both underclubbed their thirds and were a few yards short of the green with the challenger away. Miss Sullivan's chip was strong, going 10 feet past the cup. Then Mrs. Black's approach hit the fringe of the green and she was about 12 feet short.

After studying the roll carefully Mrs. Black stepped up and holed her putt for a par 5. Miss Sullivan's putt for a half was just off line. It stopped an inch from the cup and Mrs. Black had successfully defended her title.

After they'd halved the first hole with par fives, Mrs. Black dropped to 1 down by three-putting the second green. At the long fourth Miss Sullivan, who was in all kinds of trouble, chipped in for a par and a win to go 2 up.

Miss Sullivan was still 2 up going to the 6th but the match was all even after they'd played the two meadow holes. Mrs. Black was 10 feet from the 6th green cup in three and ran in a putt for a birdie and a win. Then she won the 7th by getting down in two from the edge of the green.

Mrs. Black played a fine shot from the 9th tee to the green.

POOR INDIAN

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 7 (AP)—An anonymous Indian emptied a zipper-fastened bag of five-pound ($20) notes more than $20,000 worth—in half-an-hour today, betting the entire was on Tudor Minstrel, favorite to win the 168th running of the English Derby.

Curious crowds gathered about the Oriental, who declined to give his name, as he went from one bookmaking stall to another placing his bets at odds of 5 to 4 and 6 to 4.

The Indian confided that he bets for himself alone, and only goes to the races about once a year. Tudor Minstrel finished fourth, out of the money.

Miss Sullivan was trapped and needed two putts to get down after getting out of the hazard, losing the hole to a par three. Mrs. Black lost the touch at the 10th and 11th and dropped both holes, the first to a bogey. But a double bogey cost Miss Sullivan the short 12th and again the match was all even.

Following a halve at the 13th, Miss Sullivan three putts to drop the 14th which put her one down. At the short 16th, Mrs. Black was trapped off the tee and Miss Sullivan's ball stopped close to the pond. She played a grand second to within 12 feet of the pin and got a halve.

Mrs. Black missed an opportunity to end the match at the 17th when she flubbed a short chip and then missed her second and third shots going to the 18th, winding up with a six and the match all square. But the little champion pulled herself together and came through with a win.

Alan Steinert of the host club referred the finals.

The cards: Mrs. Black—Out: 5 6 3 6 5 4 4 5 5 3—41

Miss Sullivan—Out: 5 5 3 5 5 5 5 4—42

LaMotta Does as Usual Despite Rumors of Fix

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—Middleweight Jake LaMotta, the Bronx fire hydrant, walloped baby-faced Tony Janiro, just as everyone expected he would, but what everyone was wondering today was where and how the district attorney comes up with rumors of fixed fights that turn out to be about as phony as the Battle of Gettysburg.

This taffy pull last night was a rip-snorter all the way. Ranked as the third best middleweight in the world, Jake trimmed himself down to 154½ pounds—because it would have cost him a $15,000 forfeit if he was over 155—and then proceeded to punch the youngster from Youngstown, Ohio, who is only a welterweight, into exhaustion, and gallop to a 10-round decision.

Devised by five pounds, Janiro got an "A" for effort from the crowd of 14,165, who chipped in to a gross gate of $71,874, for the way he fought back from the verge of a knockout from the sixth round on. He refused to go down until four seconds from the finish, when he collapsed and was saved by the bell. All of which made it a hair-raiser of a brawl.

HANK SAUER GAINS ON MOORE IN INTERNATIONAL BATTING RACE

Syracuse's one-two punch, "Hammering" Hank Sauer and Al "Dutch" Mele are banging International League pitching at a terrific pace in an attempt to overhaul Buffalo's Anse Moore, the circuit's leading hitter who has missed a number of games due to a severe strained ankle, according to the Associated Press.

Moore got into only one game last week and tacked two points to his average to increase his mark to .411 while Sauer broke out with a barrage of base hits and added 40 points to his average including games of Wednesday to climb from fifth to the runner-up slot with .386.

Sauer's outfield companion, Mele, second last week, dropped

Black Romps In NE Title 3-Mile Race

Bob Black, Rhode Island State sophomore, propelled himself around the Franklin Field oval in a most impressive performance in the 3-mile run of the New England Junior Track and Field championships, sponsored by the Dorchester Kiwanis Club, this morning.

Black left the other competitors far in his wake as he lapped the field twice to crack the tape in the creditable time of 14:49.4. Dave Neville of the Amerscan A. C. copied individual honors as he pranced off with a pair of triumphs. He was clocked at 22.6 seconds in the 220-yard run and followed it up by smothering the 100-yard laurels in a blanket finish. In this event Dave held off the persistent bid of speedy Al Delisio, N. E. school dash champ.

In what proved to be one of the best events on the colorful card, Irving Howe, the English High speed merchant nipped Dave Neville in a photo finish in the Special 440. Howe was timed in 52 seconds flat.
